

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

April 10, 2018

Statement from Howard Rothschild, President of the Realty Advisory Board on Labor Relations, on the 4th Negotiating Session with 32BJ

“Today marked our 4th negotiation session with 32BJ and we continue to move closer to another successful and fair contract for both sides. We remain hopeful that we will reach an agreement by April 20.”

Background

The current labor agreement, which was negotiated in 2014, covers more than 30,000 residential building service workers, including doorpersons, porters, handypersons and building superintendents, in more than 3,000 residential buildings throughout Manhattan, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island.

The relationship between the industry and its workers is one of the best in the country. Collective bargaining based on mutual respect has led to uninterrupted labor agreements for more than 25 years, with the last apartment building strike being in 1991 and before that in the 1970s.

Residential building service work is a great middle class occupation. The cost to employers for an average doorperson or porter is more than $85,000 in wages and benefits and for a handyperson, more than $91,000 in wages and benefits. All employees receive generous benefits packages including full family health insurance covering medical, dental, optical and prescription drug coverage, with no premium contribution from the employee.

All workers also receive a defined benefit pension fund and 401K annuity with an employer contribution, training and legal benefits and have up to 49 paid days off for holiday, vacation, sick and medical time.

The Realty Advisory Board on Labor Relations, Inc., (RAB)

The Realty Advisory Board on Labor Relations (RAB) was formed in 1933 as an organization through which employers in the building service industry could bargain with the union. The RAB represents building owners in one of the most unionized industries in New York City and its building service workers are among one of the highest paid in the country.

www.rabolr.com / Follow us on Twitter @RABOLR

Media Contact:

Kyle Sklerov

Rubenstein Communications

(212) 843-8486/ ksklerov@rubenstein.com